

US

For Law Students

In the US, we offer the IDR Fellowship. Each year, we award the IDR Fellowship to one or more of the top law students in US law schools who are interested in international arbitration and who have an interest in working outside the US.

The position is for two to three months during the summer between the IDR Fellow's 2L and 3L year in law school. During the IDR Fellowship, the candidate will work part of the summer in one of our US offices and the other part in one of our non-US offices.

To qualify to be an IDR Fellow, the applicant must meet the following:

1. Currently enrolled at a US law school
2. A rising 3L at the time of the Fellowship
3. Interested in a career in international arbitration
4. Possess proof of US citizenship/residency, and
5. Willing to work long-term outside the US

If you are interested in applying to be an IDR Fellow, be prepared to submit a one-page cover letter, a one-page curriculum vitae, a law school grade transcript, a list of three references and a writing sample.

For applicants who have already graduated from a US law school

We evaluate our associate hiring needs on an ongoing basis. If you are interested in applying to be an associate in our IDR Practice in the US, please be prepared to submit a one-page cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a law school grade transcript, a list of three references and a writing sample.

The application process is currently closed, but check back later for further updates.
