Business Viability and Director Risk – Act Now

Is your business ready for the second wave? Can it survive further lockdown? What are the next steps?

Ongoing uncertainties about the COVID-19 pandemic, coupled with the looming deadline of Brexit, mean businesses and owners are in for a tough ride over the next few months, possibly much longer if the UK continues to face restrictions.

With England in the midst of a second lockdown (alongside restrictions in the rest of the UK), there is an increasing realisation that COVID-19 (and its devastating impact on health and the economy) will be around much longer than expected.

Business owners need to make difficult decisions about the future viability of their businesses, which is not easy in the current environment. Those decisions need to be taken carefully in light of directors' duties to act in the best interest of the company and its creditors as a whole. Directors may decide that there is no longer a viable business and retaining employees, taking on further debt or even continuing the business may no longer be in the company's best interests. If directors do not act in the best interests of the company and, in particular, its creditors, there is increased risk of personal liability for directors if the financial position of the company deteriorates.

At the start of the pandemic, the UK saw unprecedented financial support offered by the government in an effort to preserve businesses during lockdown until there was a return to "normal" in the autumn. However, autumn is here and the UK is a long way from returning to any sort of normal.

Government schemes continue to offer support, but they do not protect all businesses. As Rishi Sunak acknowledged in the Winter Economy Plan, not all businesses can be saved, and not all jobs can be saved. Hoping that the UK economy will make a quick recovery and relying on the support offered by the government may no longer be enough to protect directors from personal risk.

The only thing for certain is that no one knows when the UK economy might start to recover or when restrictions will be eased permanently. However, there are a number of ways that directors can reduce the risk of personal liability and positive steps that can (and should) be taken to protect the business.

With the festive period approaching, those sectors that are likely to be hardest hit will include retail, hospitality, leisure and tourism. However, most businesses will be facing difficult decisions.

Should the business borrow more? If so, where from? Should it make staff redundant? What about the furlough scheme – should staff remain on furlough? Can the business pay back previous borrowings? What does the future hold? Can the business sustain more loss? Can it pay deferred debt if trade is slow to return? Is the business ready for Brexit?

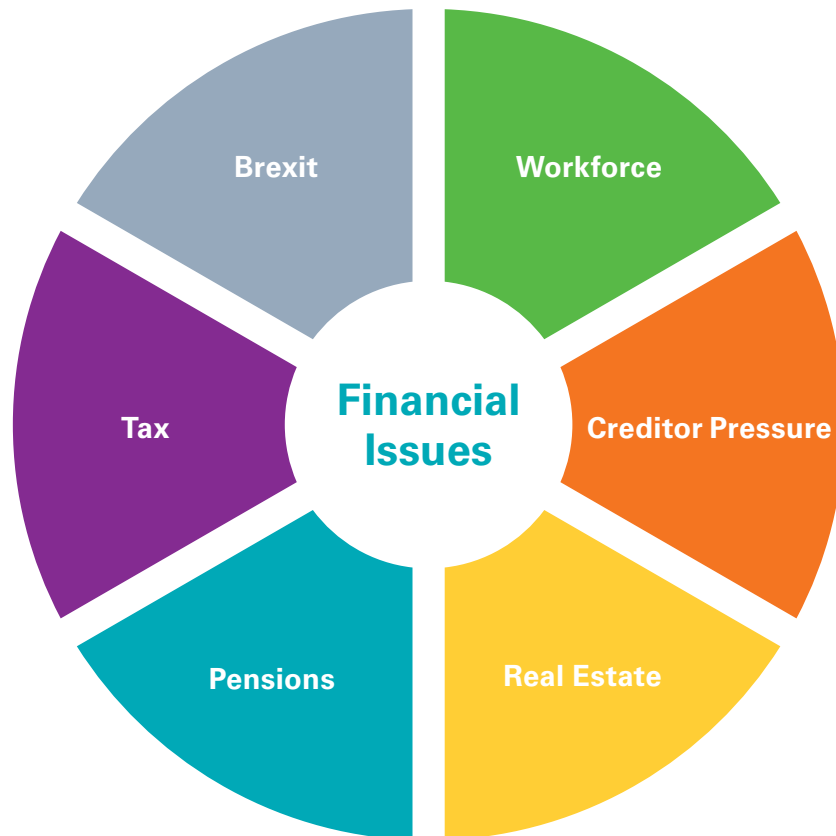

This brochure contains a number of guides to help navigate these difficult decisions, but the key for all directors is to act now and take advice to minimise the risk of personal liability. We have a team of experts who can help with decisions about employees, cash requirements and borrowings, and offer advice on restructuring options. We also offer a furlough audit.

Financial Health Roadmap

UK Business Key Dates To Manage Financial Health

This financial health roadmap helps identify key dates that may impact cash flow in the coming months and should be considered (alongside the specific financial needs of the business) when planning.

It highlights when the measures put in place by the UK Government and HMRC will change and consequently when creditor pressure may increase, when a business will be required to fund ongoing operational costs that are currently supported by the UK Government or where payment is deferred for instance by HMRC.

Roadmap Destinations

November 2020

Coronavirus Job Retention Scheme Extended

- As the economic effects of the pandemic are proving much longer-lasting than originally anticipated, the government has decided to extend the CJRS to give businesses greater certainty and protect more jobs over what is clearly going to be a very difficult winter. Support under the extended scheme will be available from 1 November to 31 March next year.

December 2020

HMRC to Become a Secondary Preferential Creditor in the Event of an Insolvency

- From 1 December, HMRC will become a secondary preferential creditor in respect of certain tax debts held by a business on behalf of its customers and employees for the distribution of assets in the event of insolvency. Given the impact on asset-based lenders and floating charge holders, this is likely to result in lenders amending, changing or tightening the terms of facilities and increasing reserves. Consequently, this will impact the cash available to a business and also its creditors, particularly those reliant on asset-based lending. Businesses should engage with lenders to understand how any changes will impact future cash requirements and availability.

Restrictions on Debt Collection and Creditor Action Lifted

- From 31 December the temporary restrictions on presenting a winding up petition for an unpaid debt (which apply where the reason for non-payment is COVID-19 related) end. In addition the temporary restrictions on presenting a winding up petition based on an unsatisfied statutory demand end.
- Unless arrangements have been made to pay unpaid suppliers, HMRC or landlords, aggressive creditors may threaten or bring winding up proceedings.

NB: other enforcement action (court action/enforcement of retention of title) is not restricted.

Recovery Action for Non-Payment of Rent Can Commence

- From 31 December, the temporary restrictions on landlords taking forfeiture proceedings ends as do the temporary restrictions on pursuing Commercial Rent Arrears Recovery (CRAR) to recover unpaid rent.
- Unless rent has been paid or new arrangements to pay outstanding rent have been agreed, landlords will be able to take recovery action against tenants for unpaid rent.

Brexit

- The UK will leave the EU single market, Customs Union, and VAT and excise duty area on 31 December. From 1 January 2021, the UK will operate its own external border as a sovereign nation.

January 2021

Stage One of UK Border Operating Model Takes Effect

- From 1 January, businesses importing standard goods will need to operate basic customs requirements, account for and pay import VAT on imported goods. Other than for certain controlled goods, customs declarations will not be due for six months. Customs duties on imports will be payable but it will be possible to defer payments until the accompanying customs declaration is made. Export and safety and security declarations will be required for all goods.

Income Tax: Deferral of Self-assessment Payments on Account to be Paid in Full

- On or before 31 January any income tax self-assessment payment on account due to HMRC in July 2020, that has been deferred, is due to be paid in full (either as one payment or in instalments).
- In his Winter Economy Plan, the Chancellor of the Exchequer announced that self-employed taxpayers who exercised the option to defer their second payment on account will, subject to agreeing a payment schedule with HMRC's self-service Enhanced Time to Pay facility, be allowed to pay the tax due over an additional 12-month period, with deferred amounts not due to be paid in full until the end of January 2022. No interest or penalties will be levied on the "late" payments. Discussed in more detail in The Winter Economy Plan: Tax section of this guide on page 33.
- Subject to a further Time to Pay agreement, any balancing payment due for the 2019 to 2020 tax year, plus the first payment on account due for the 2020 to 2021 tax year, will still be due and payable on 31 January 2021.

The Pensions Regulator (TPR) Extends the Easement for Reporting the Late Payment of Money Purchase Pension Contributions

- In response to the pandemic, TPR granted an easement extending the period for reporting the late payment of money purchase pension contributions from no later than 90 days after the due day to 150 days. From 1 January 2021, TPR asks trustees and pension providers to report the late payment of money purchase contributions no later than 90 days after the due date. However, reverting to 90 days does not become mandatory until 1 April 2021 (TPR says that this is to provide for adjustments to systems and processes).

March 2021

Spring Budget 2021

- The Autumn Budget 2020 was postponed. A budget will have to take place before the end of March

Payment of VAT on Deferrals between 20 March and 30 June 2020 Due

- On or before 31 March 2021, any VAT payments that were deferred between 20 March and 30 June 2020 will be due, unless affected businesses opt-in to the VAT Deferral New Payment Scheme.
- The Winter Economy Plan introduced a VAT Deferral New Payment Scheme that will allow affected business to spread the payment of unpaid deferred VAT due over 11 equal instalments through the financial year 2021-2022. No interest or penalties will be levied on the “late” payments. Discussed in more detail in The Winter Economy Plan: Tax section of this guide on page 33.
- Any cancelled Direct Debits should be re-established in good time for HMRC to process payment(s). Businesses spreading the repayment of deferred VAT should check their payment arrangements are appropriate for the VAT Deferral New Payment Scheme. VAT returns should be submitted as normal and on time. Any VAT due since 30 June 2020 should also be paid as normal and on time.

April 2021

VAT Rate Reduction for Hospitality, Leisure and Accommodation Expires

- From 1 April 2021, businesses in the hospitality, leisure and accommodation sectors that have been supplying food, non-alcoholic drinks, hotel and holiday accommodation or admission to certain attractions at the reduced rate (5%) of VAT, should ensure they have systems in place to reapply the standard rate (20%) for supplies made on and after that date and account for any VAT due accordingly. The Winter Economy Plan extended the period during which the reduced rate applies to 31 March 2021. Businesses utilising the Flat Rate Scheme, the Tour Operators Margin Scheme or any other applicable special retail scheme should consider the impact of the reduced rate, and subsequent reversal, on their VAT calculations and accounting. Discussed in more detail in The Winter Economy Plan: Tax section of this guide on page 33.

Stage Two of UK Border Operating Model Takes Effect

- From 1 April 2021 imports of products of animal origin (POAO) and other regulated plants and plant products will require pre-notification and the relevant health documentation.

Business Rates Relief Ends

- From 1 April 2021, certain businesses in the retail, hospitality and leisure sectors in England will have to pay business rates for the 2021 to 2022 tax year as normal. Similar relief provisions in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland are also due to end. The next business rates revaluation in England, which had been due in 2021, has been postponed. However, affected businesses should also note that the government is consulting on a fundamental review of business rates which could result in significant changes being made to the system in the medium-to-long term.

TPR Reverts to 90-day Period for Reporting the Late Payment of Money Purchase Pension Contributions

- From 1 April 2021 reporting the late payment of pension contributions to a money purchase scheme must be no later than 90 days after the due date, rather than 150 days.

July 2021

Full Application of UK Border Operating Model

- From 1 July 2021 businesses importing any goods will have to make full customs, safety and security declarations at the point of importation and pay all relevant taxes and duties.

Other Cost Considerations

Redundancy Costs

- The government hopes that businesses will rely on the support offered by the UK government under the extended CJRS to avoid the need for redundancies over the difficult winter months. Some businesses may, however, consider that some redundancies are still necessary. Proper advice should be sought and if redundancies are unavoidable, the costs will need to be factored into cash flow.

Deferred Payments or Forbearance

- If a business has agreed to defer repayment, adjusted payment terms or agreed a period of forbearance with its creditors, the terms of deferral, repayment or forbearance should be reviewed, re-negotiated if appropriate and factored into future cash flow requirements – including any agreement with the company’s lenders, suppliers, landlord or time to pay agreements with HMRC.

Assessing Viability and Business Risk

Key Points for UK Businesses to Consider

The purpose of this quick guide is to help organisations focus on key issues that impact viability and sustainability given the ongoing uncertainties created by the COVID-19 pandemic.

In addition businesses must also consider what impact Brexit might have at the end of 2020. Many issues highlighted in this guide will also be relevant to that.

Cash Flow and Financing

Directors should prepare new cash flow forecasts for best and worst case scenarios (i.e prolonged national lockdown and further localised lockdowns), considering any expected changes to supply and demand, any changes to operational costs and factoring in any deferrals of historic liabilities, and any new debt which has been taken on. Forecasts and projections should be continually reviewed and updated to reflect changes in the market, lessons learnt and expected government changes.

Repayment of borrowing

- Use of government schemes (e.g. CBILS, CLBILS, Future Fund, etc.?)
- Other additional borrowing from existing lenders
- When and how will payments be met?
- Is there a need to restructure debt?

Rent

- Rent holiday/reduction agreed?
- Ability to meet future (and missed) rent payments
- Restructure future rent turnover or similar arrangements
- Aggressive action from landlords when restrictions are lifted (stat demands, forfeiture, winding-up petitions)

Deferred payments

- Paying deferred VAT payments/rent/suppliers
- Meeting tax payments under time to pay agreements

Government restrictions

- Impact of lock-down on supply chain and demand

Forbearance

- Repaying existing lenders – forbearance may end and payments need to resume
- Impact of protective measures lifting, after 31 December 2020 i.e. restrictions on forfeiture and winding up petitions
- Availability of government support

Cash Flow Pressures

Suppliers

- Catching up on payments to suppliers
- Agreeing and abiding by new terms
- Ability to meet future obligations – increased costs
- Aggressive debt recovery action

Employees

- Impact of second wave
- Impact of required employer contributions for furloughed staff and furlough audits
- Payroll funding following end of the Coronavirus Job Retention Scheme and impact on cash and employee requirements
- End to contractual variations for paycuts
- Is a redundancy programme going to be necessary? If so, when does any consultation need to start?

Debtors

- Have debtor days slipped during COVID-19?
- What action can/should be taken to address any potential bad debt issues?
- Reduced credit terms/payment on delivery/increased prices/credit insurance

Supply and Demand

Operational

- Identify key suppliers: business critical and projected spend
- Staggered approach to resuming supply
- Able to meet expected demand
- Changes to delivery timescales
- Alternative sourcing? Costs consequences?

Pricing and payment

- Changes to payment terms/cost (e.g. cash on delivery)
- Financial health of suppliers
- Ability to obtain credit

Stock

- Future import/export tariffs and taxes

Termination of existing contracts

- Force majeure
- Material adverse change
- Termination rights

Government restrictions

- Impact of restrictions on supply chain

De-risking the supply chain for the future

- Review of whole supply chain
- Look to achieve greater diversity in supply chain
- Potential investments in technology

Company

Shape of demand

- What demand is there?
- Impact of lock-down on future demand

End-user/customer

- Decrease in consumer confidence
- Cash-strapped customers

Changes to product and offering

- Changes to consumer habits (e.g. e-commerce and importance of home delivery)
- Increase in appetite for online suppliers and delivery services

Pricing and payment terms

- Review pricing structure, are pre-COVID-19 margins still achievable?
- Consider credit terms and customer insolvency risk
- Is credit insurance still available?
- Is invoice discounting an option to improve working capital?

Government/Other Restrictions

- Impact of any lock-down e.g. reduced/no footfall
- Impact of restrictions e.g. self isolation
- Impact of social distancing measures e.g. reduced operating capacity

Employee Considerations

Business requirement/need

- Does the business need the same number of employees in light of any changes to supply/demand/business model? Are redundancies necessary?
- Re-allocation of resource according to business plan

Availability/Costs

- Impact of lockdown (existing, new, prolonged)
- Impact on employees (fear of infection, childcare responsibilities, self-isolation, or shielding etc.)
- Will there be any permanent changes to working patterns/habits that impact operational costs? i.e. increase in homeworking and decrease in office space
- Psychological support – assisting employees to adapt, support with bereavement – costs?

Long-term changes to contracts and remuneration

- Flexible remuneration plans
- Agree reductions in salary and bonuses
- Lead from the top!

Operational Costs

Licences

- Renewals/periodic fees payable to ensure licence continuation
- Inability and capacity of named individuals/licence holders/trained individuals to carry out role (e.g. long-term absences, sickness, self-isolation)
- Licence amendments to reflect changed trading arrangements (e.g. changes to hours or activities)

Increased health and safety costs and compliance with social distancing

- Strategies for effective social distancing – screens, changing shift patterns, use of different parts of premises, monitoring symptoms, track and trace, etc
- Travel to work and transport
- Sanitisation and cleaning programmes

Changes in operational practices and procedure

- Changes to real estate footprint to accommodate changes to employee and working practices (e.g. reduced office space or larger warehouses)
- Investment in technological capabilities to accommodate changes
- Greater automation of processes (or parts of processes)

Opportunities and Lessons Learnt from COVID-19

Statistics show that most consumers do not want a return to “normal” and we can expect significant behavioural changes.

Many businesses have already made changes to their day-to-day operations, many changes will be permanent or will require further adaption to meet new government guidelines but all will impact on future cash requirements.

Directors' Duties and Related Matters, in the Context of COVID-19

Scope And Purpose of This Note

This note summarises the duties that directors of companies incorporated in England and Wales are subject to.

This note explains those duties, and matters that directors should consider in relation to them, in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Commentary

Directors' Duties

- Directors have statutory duties that they owe to the company. Each director owes these duties individually. In the exercise of those duties, generally and whilst the company trades solvently, the directors must act in the way they consider in good faith would be most likely to promote the success of the company for the benefit of its members as a whole. Their statutory duties require that directors also take into account wider factors such as the environment, employees, the standard of their business conduct, business relationships with suppliers and customers, and any other relevant circumstances
- If the company becomes insolvent, whilst these statutory duties are still owed legally to the company, they become subject to other interests to which the directors should have regard, such as those of the creditors of the company. However, the interests of the shareholders are still relevant.
- A breach of any of the statutory duties is actionable by the company, and any right of action could be exercised by an appointed insolvency practitioner should the company later enter a formal insolvency process.
- The law makes no distinction between executive and non-executive directors or shadow directors. All members of the board have the same duties to the company. A director must exercise reasonable care, skill and diligence. This means the care, skill and diligence that would be exercised by a reasonably diligent person with the general knowledge, skill and experience that may be reasonably expected of a person carrying out the functions carried out by a director in relation to the company and the general knowledge, skill and experience of that director.
- Whilst the interests of shareholders remain relevant during any period in which the company is or may be insolvent, the directors should not be influenced by any power any individual shareholder has to remove or replace the directors (or any of them) and must act in what they consider to be in the best interests of the company's creditors as a whole.

Trading Insolvently/Wrongful Trading

- A company is likely to be insolvent if:
 - It cannot meet all its present and due payment obligations (i.e. it is unable to pay its debts when they fall due), in which case it is likely to be insolvent on a cash flow basis
 - The value of its assets is less than the amount of its liabilities (taking into account its contingent and prospective liabilities), in which circumstances it is likely to be insolvent on a balance sheet basis
- Within these two tests of insolvency, there is much case law (recent and historic) beyond the scope of this note, setting out exactly what must be taken into account. However, in the current COVID-19 environment, it will, in many cases, be incredibly challenging (if not impossible) for businesses to accurately project their cash flow forecasts and/or value their assets for the purposes of these tests. In which case, directors should take a cautious approach on the solvency tests, and if in doubt, presume insolvency.
- Directors should be aware that whilst there is no statutory prohibition against trading whilst insolvent, there could be some degree of risk of the directors being required to contribute personally to the assets of the company if they continue to do so.
- If the directors continue to trade in circumstances where they knew or ought to have concluded that there was no reasonable prospect that the company would avoid going into insolvent liquidation, then they may be liable for wrongful trading under section 214 of the Insolvency Act 1986 (IA 1986).
- In such circumstances, the directors could be personally liable for any losses suffered by creditors caused by continued trading unless they take every step possible with a view to minimising those losses that they ought to take.
- The key consideration for directors is, therefore: “Is there a reasonable prospect of avoiding insolvent liquidation?” If there is, the directors will not be liable for “wrongful trading” so long as they hold that belief reasonably, having regard to information available to them and the standards of skill and care expected of them
- The directors should, amongst other things, consider whether:
 - The company is presently operating within existing facilities whilst managing the position with creditors generally
 - The company qualifies for the government’s Coronavirus Business Interruption Loan Scheme (CBILS), Coronavirus Large Business Interruption Loan Scheme (CLBILS) or the COVID Commercial Financing Facility (CCFF)¹ (whilst these measures are still available), and have received an indication from the company’s bankers that they would support the company with those facilities
 - The company is eligible for any grants, rates relief or other support being made available by the government² in response to COVID-19
 - The company’s financiers have withdrawn any facilities previously made available to it (such as overdraft facilities) or have indicated that they will be unable to provide ongoing support
 - The impact on the company’s cash flow will be material if the company has chosen to defer payment of any VAT for the period from 20 March to 30 June 2020 or the impact on cash flow of any other payments that the business has agreed to defer (note that the company will also have the option to repay that deferred VAT liability in 12 monthly installments between March 2021 and March 2022)
 - The company is able to apply for a “time to pay” (TTP) arrangement with HMRC to spread its current tax liabilities over a period of three to 12 months

- Its shareholders have been made aware of any additional working capital requirements and have indicated a willingness to extend facilities to the company
- The company is able to ‘furlough’ employees (i.e grant them a period of leave instead of making them redundant) given that the government will pay up to 80% of wages
- There is a realistic prospect that the company can be sold as a going concern at a value sufficient to ensure all creditors will be paid in full, with a return to shareholders, and have instructed advisors to market the business; note that this is likely to be far less achievable in the current climate compared to a non-COVID-19 impacted market
- The directors should be aware that there may be a risk of challenge to their view if any assumptions that they were making relating to these points prove to be materially inaccurate, particularly as a result of the fast-developing situation with COVID-19. If the company subsequently enters into an insolvency process, then the period of trading prior to that formal insolvency process will be reviewed by an insolvency practitioner with the benefit of hindsight. To mitigate against this risk, the following matters should be carefully and regularly reviewed during this period of uncertainty to ensure that so far as possible:
 - Any new credit, supplies and services are necessary and bona fide for the purpose of continuing the business; if the business intends to take on further credit by way of CBILS, CLBILS or CCFF, the directors should be of the view that the funding will enable the business to survive the pandemic and continue on a business as usual basis once the pandemic recedes and normal trading patterns resume; the directors should ensure that when applying for funds under CBILS, CLBILS or CCFF, they provide full disclosure to its bankers regarding its financial position
 - Any transactions out of the ordinary course of trade are the subject of particular scrutiny and avoided wherever possible
 - The company is able to meet payroll for those employees that it is or has “unfurloughed”
 - It is appropriate for the company to utilise the Coronavirus Job Retention Scheme
 - No creditors are specifically preferred (see below) or transactions entered into at an undervalue (see below) unless in good faith and that are critical to ensure the survival of the business and the prospects of achieving a turnaround and/or solvent disposal/restructuring
 - The directors work to develop expeditiously a credible business plan for the immediate term with as realistic and prudent assumptions as it is possible to make in the current circumstances, incorporating reasonably achievable options for a recovery for creditors and (if possible) a return to shareholders
 - The directors consider what contingency strategies could be put in place to protect the interests of creditors should the new business plan prove unsuccessful (see below)
 - The directors consider the net deficiency position of the company’s assets immediately and analyse whether it is believed continued trading will either reduce or increase that deficiency; the directors should keep this under regular review with a comparative analysis of the net deficiency compared against what would be the position if continued trading had not occurred and regularly forecasted for a week in advance; this will provide supporting evidence that losses to the company were constantly under review and corrective action to reduce losses was taken at an early stage; the analysis must show that any continued trading is intended to reduce the net deficiency of the company, but also that it is designed appropriately so as to minimise the risk of loss to individual creditors; this exercise should be further reinforced by circulating the net deficiency analysis to an insolvency practitioner each week for advice in respect of continued trading
- The board should keep full and accurate minutes of its reviews, decisions (including any dissenting views of individual directors), the reasons for those decisions and the information (particularly financial information that should be attached to the minutes) upon which such decisions are based.

Impact of Relaxation of Wrongful Trading Rules

- On 25 June, the Corporate Insolvency and Governance Act received Royal Assent and temporarily relaxed the wrongful trading provisions under UK Insolvency Laws.
- Under the temporary provisions (that applied from 1 March until 30 September 2020 to all companies (save for some exceptions such as building societies and banks)) when determining whether a director is liable to make a contribution to the assets of a company for wrongful trading, the courts had to assume that a director was not responsible for any worsening of the financial position of the company.
- The measure enabled businesses to continue to operate and/or to be mothballed without creating additional unnecessary risks for directors, encouraging companies to take advantage of the unprecedented financial support offered by the government to help support cash flow if the directors reasonably believed that doing so was in the best interests of the company/creditors.
- Whilst the changes to the wrongful trading provisions may have provided some comfort to directors concerned about incurring additional credit or borrowings during this period, the temporary relaxation of the rules has now ended, which means that directors should ensure that they comply in all respects with the wrongful trading provisions as set out above.
- It remains to be seen how a court will determine the liability of a director if there has been wrongful trading during the temporary period, but which continues beyond 30 September 2020. To mitigate possible liability, directors should seek professional advice and take every possible step to minimise further loss to the company's creditors.

Possible Redundancies

- The directors should consider at an early stage whether redundancies amongst the company's workforce may be necessary in order to save the business and, if so, whether consultation is required pursuant to TULRCA.
- If the business is contemplating redundancies, but only because of the impact of COVID-19 on the business, it should also consider whether the government's extended Coronavirus Job Support Scheme will assist in preserving jobs (now available until 31 March 2021).
- Under section 188 of TULRCA, there is an obligation on the company to inform and consult appropriate representatives of affected employees when 20 or more redundancies are proposed to take effect at one establishment in a period of 90 days or less. The appropriate representatives of affected employees are either trade union representatives or, where no trade union is recognised, employee representatives elected for the purposes of consultation. The directors should consider what steps will need to be taken to effect collective consultation. Consultation must last for a minimum of 30 days where 20 – 99 redundancies are proposed (or at least 45 days if 100 or more redundancies are proposed) prior to any dismissals taking effect.
- For completeness, where an employer proposes to dismiss fewer than 20 employees within a 90-day period, there is no requirement to consult collectively with representatives of affected employees. However, an employer is still required to follow a fair procedure if it wishes to avoid unfair dismissals.
- Under section 193 of TULRCA, there is an obligation on the company to notify the Secretary of State (currently via the Department for Business, Enterprise and Industrial Strategy, BEIS) in writing using form HR1 in a collective redundancy situation. Again, notification is to be received by BEIS at least 45 days before the first dismissal takes effect where the company is proposing to dismiss 100 or more employees, reduced to at least 30 days for between 20 and 99 employees.
- The directors should keep full and accurate minutes of the board's proposals, and in respect of decisions taken to make any employees redundant, ensure that consideration has been given to the company's obligations to consult collectively and to notify the Secretary of State. In the case of the collapse of parcel delivery firm City Link Limited, a prosecution was initially brought against the directors for not notifying the Secretary of State. Whilst the City Link directors were eventually acquitted on the narrow facts of that case, there is a real risk that directors who are proposing to make redundancies could be prosecuted for failing to notify in the event of any delay in doing so. The directors may even wish to notify the Secretary of State as a protective measure. Whilst it remains to be seen how strictly this requirement will be enforced in the current circumstances, directors should continue to comply with the notification provisions to avoid risk of prosecution.

Contingency Strategy

- Given the ongoing restrictions in the UK placed upon businesses and individuals and the economic conditions as a result of the pandemic, directors should immediately consider what steps they should be taking in order to protect the business. A number of businesses in these circumstances will be at risk of trading whilst insolvent (and may be in real difficulty in assessing the company's financial position, given the dramatic impact caused to cash flows, trading and the value of assets). The directors will need to take every step to minimise losses to creditors. This does not necessarily mean an immediate cessation of trading, but a number of businesses are likely to need to re-structure to address the changes in supply and demand and we would recommend taking urgent further advice on the options available.

Challengeable Transactions

• General

Certain transactions that take place at a time when a company is insolvent, or becomes insolvent as a result of the transaction, are open to challenge by an appointed insolvency practitioner if the company subsequently enters a formal insolvency procedure.

Directors, to the extent responsible for such transactions, can be held personally liable for any loss suffered by the company as a result of the transaction, both under IA 1986 and as potential misfeasance.

Directors should be aware of the grounds for such challenges and, in considering any relevant transactions, determine whether it is appropriate for such transactions to proceed. Any such decisions should be carefully minuted.

• Transactions at an Undervalue (s 238 IA 1986)

A transaction will be at an undervalue if it is a gift by the company, or the company receives no consideration, or the value of the consideration received by the company (in money or money's worth) is significantly less than the value of the consideration given by the company in the transaction. It will be challenging in the current circumstances to value certain classes of assets accurately, but directors should keep records of the basis on which the disposed asset was valued, and why.

Any such transactions taking place within two years of formal insolvency will be open to challenge, if they took place at a time the company was insolvent or became insolvent as a result of the transaction (which is presumed if the transaction was with a connected party).

However, the transaction will not be subject to challenge if:

- It was done in good faith for the purpose of carrying on the business
- The directors had reasonable grounds for believing that it would benefit the company

Therefore, in considering any asset disposal to raise liquidity (for example) at less than market value, the directors should address specifically whether it is justifiable on the grounds set out above. We recommend specific advice is taken in relation to any relevant transaction, and the decision is carefully minuted at the time.

• Preferences (s 239 IA 1986)

A preference is a transaction with a creditor (or a surety or guarantor of any of the company's liabilities) under which the creditor is placed in a better position than it would have been in if the transaction had not occurred and the company proceeds into insolvent liquidation.

A preference is open to challenge if the company proceeds into formal insolvency within six months of the transaction in question if the creditor is not a connected party, and within two years if the creditor is connected. This is provided the company was insolvent at the time, or became insolvent as a result of the transaction (which is presumed if the creditor is connected).

However, in effecting the preference, the company must have been influenced by a desire to give the creditor the preferential position. This is presumed for transactions with connected creditors, but can be rebutted.

In circumstances where decisions have to be made on a daily basis during cash flow difficulties as to which creditors to pay, preference issues are highly relevant. In this regard, the directors should consider the following:

- Is the payment necessary for the continued operation of the business and, therefore, necessary to preserve the prospects of a going concern survival and payment in full to creditors, i.e. is it business critical? This may include payment to key suppliers of goods and/or services where such supplies are critical and cannot easily be resourced elsewhere at the speed and price required. Consideration should be given as to whether payment over time for historical debt can be agreed as a condition of continued supply.
- Is the payment necessary to avert action being taken by the creditor which may prejudice the survival of the business? If payment is made under threat of winding up proceedings, or legal proceedings that the company cannot defend or afford to defend, or to avoid distraint on goods, it is unlikely to be considered a preference. Evidence of this threat and the company's response should be documented.

• Directors' Remuneration, Expenses and Employees

- As connected creditors of the company, particularly careful attention should be paid to discharging outstanding expenses claims and arrears of remuneration to directors. If the company is continuing to trade on the basis that the directors hold a reasonable belief that the company will avoid insolvent liquidation and pay all creditors in full, it would be questionable if, at the same time, significant arrears of expenses and remuneration are discharged when other creditors are not being paid.
- Employees, on the other hand, will be a necessary part of continuing to operate the business. As directors under a contract of employment are employees and a critical requirement to ensure the company is managed through this phase, ongoing payments of remuneration and expenses (and general payroll) may be appropriate to ensure continued services to the company. This is subject to any requirement identified in the business plan to effect employee cost reductions, in particular those resulting from the furloughing of employees, to take advantage of the government underwriting 80% of the employment costs of those furloughed employees. Payment of arrears of remuneration and expenses claims may be justifiable in the circumstances; if not to do so would cause genuine financial hardship for the director personally such that the director could not continue with their responsibilities without seeking an alternative source of income. If such circumstances exist, any such director should consider taking independent advice on their personal position if the directors as a whole consider such payment cannot be made presently within the resources available.

• Unpaid National Insurance Contributions (NIC)

- If a company does not pay the correct amount of NIC, HMRC has the power under s121C of the Social Security Administration Act 1992 to issue Personal Liability Notices to recover the unpaid NIC plus interest and penalties from the directors or any other officers personally. Before issuing a notice, HMRC must be satisfied on the balance of probabilities that the failure to pay was due to fraud or neglect, judged by an objective test.
- HMRC will consider issuing a notice where, in the face of persistent failure to pay NIC, a company made significant and/or regular payments to other creditors, connected persons or companies, or in the form of directors' salaries.

• Offences Under the IA 1986

The directors should be aware that since 1 October 2015, the right to bring claims for certain offences under the IA 1986, including Fraudulent Trading and Wrongful Trading, has been extended to an administrator and/or can now be assigned by an appointed insolvency practitioner (i.e. either a liquidator or administrator). For the sake of completeness, we set out below a summary of the other main offences that will be investigated by the appointed insolvency practitioner if the company proceeds into formal insolvency:

– Fraudulent Trading: (s213 IA 1986)

It is an offence to knowingly carry on the business of a company with intent to defraud creditors and any person who does so may be ordered by the court to make such contributions to the company's assets as it thinks fit.

– Misfeasance or Breach of Fiduciary Duty: (s212 IA 1986)

It is an offence for a director of a company to have misapplied or retained or become accountable for any money or other property of the company or been guilty of an misfeasance or breach of fiduciary duty in relation to the company, allowing the court to order the director to repay, restore or account for the money or property together with interest or contribute to the company's assets by way of compensation.

Director Disqualification

- Where a company proceeds into formal insolvency, the appointed insolvency practitioner has a duty to report to the Secretary of State on the conduct of each of the directors and former directors of the company. The Secretary of State must then decide whether to bring proceedings against the directors to disqualify any of them from acting as a director or in the promotion, formation or management of any company on the grounds of unfitness, for between two to 15 years.
- The directors should, therefore, be aware that should it not prove possible ultimately to effect a solvent turnaround and/or disposal, their conduct as directors (particularly at this time and going forward) will be subject to such scrutiny
- It is, therefore, critically important for this reason, and to deal with risks in relation to all the matters raised in this note, that the directors regularly (i.e. at least weekly, and preferably every few days during the pandemic) review the ongoing financial position and progress of the business plan, any relevant transactions for which particular consideration should be given, and its continuing belief in the appropriateness of continuing trading (or continuing to "mothball", as applicable).
- All such reviews should be carefully minuted, to include the information available to the directors, matters discussed, all views expressed and considered, any decisions reached and the rationale for such decisions having regard to the points and recommendations made in this note. The directors should also keep a notebook of daily discussions and matters, so that there is always a contemporaneous note to support their actions in the conduct of the business during this time.

Personal Guarantees

Directors should be aware that any who have given personal guarantees may be personally liable for the company's debts under them.

Deposits and Trust Accounts

- There is no case law or statutory authority that states, in the company's present circumstances, the directors are under a duty to protect deposit creditors by the operation of a trust account to "ring-fence" deposit monies.
- By contrast, there is case law authority that highlights the risk of a preference in creating a trust for such creditors and using company funds to place monies into a trust account for this purpose. Further, within the context of director disqualification, the courts have held that where directors are pursuing a reasonable prospect of avoiding an insolvent liquidation and a full return to all creditors, there is no legal obligation to depart from normal trading practice so as specifically to protect deposits and pre-payments by a trust account.
- Where there is uncertainty regarding the current position, we do not believe the directors could be criticised for seeking to protect deposits received going forward by the operation of a properly constituted trust account, but would make the following comments:
 - At the time of receipt of the deposit, it must be paid on an express trust obligation (or on terms that evidence a trust) such that the deposit is properly held on trust. This would require clear terms and conditions with such customers to this effect (which we would be happy to assist with) and making sure operational practices are in place to ensure those terms apply. Even if deposits have been received, and placed in a separate account, there would remain a preference risk if the account is not properly constituted as a trust account to avoid the fund being regarded as an asset of the company.
 - Placing deposits on trust would reduce the working capital available to the company with which to pursue a recovery strategy which protects all creditors and a return for shareholders, thereby shortening the time available to achieve this.
 - If, in light of these comments, the directors elect not to proceed with arrangements for placing deposits on trust, we would nevertheless recommend that an account be set up or kept open (as applicable) for that purpose should it prove necessary in due course. In the meantime, the directors should take care not to actively encourage higher levels of deposits than would ordinarily be experienced to avoid any criticism in that regard.
- Should the company be at risk of trading whilst insolvent, we believe the courts are likely to consider placing deposits on trust as a step which "ought to be taken" to minimise losses to creditors.

Restriction on the Use of Company Names: (s 216 IA 1986)

- In the event that the directors wish to consider a management buyout from insolvency practitioners, they should be aware that it is an offence for a director or shadow director of a liquidated company to be involved either directly or indirectly with a new company with a similar name for a period of five years beginning with the day on which the old company went into liquidation. If a director breaches this provision, the penalties include imprisonment, a fine or both, together with personal liability for the debts of the new company.
- However, there are specific circumstances in which the above section will not apply and we can advise you further if required.

Summary of UK Government Financial Support

Around the globe, many Governments have reacted quickly to try to mitigate COVID-19's impact by implementing financial support schemes and resources to help support local businesses. This guide summarises the financial support measures that are available to UK businesses.

Financing Facility Support

What help is available?	What does the help entail?	Which companies are eligible?	What are the criteria (if any) for applying?	How to apply	When will the finance be available?
Coronavirus Business Interruption Loan Scheme (CBILS)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Government is providing lenders with a guarantee of 80% on each loan. Scheme is designed to boost lenders' confidence in providing finance to small businesses. Scheme supports loans and other types of financing of up to £5 million in value. Scheme is offered through accredited lenders. Businesses can access the first 12 months of the finance interest-free, as government will cover the first 12 months of interest payments. Finance terms are up to six years for term loans and asset finance facilities and up to three years for overdrafts and invoice finance facilities. However, the government intends to allow CBILS lenders to extend the term of a loan up to ten years. There is no fee for smaller businesses to access the scheme, but there is a fee for lenders to access it. For all facilities, including those over £250,000, CBILS can now support lending to smaller businesses even where a lender considers there to be sufficient security. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Small businesses are eligible for this scheme. Business must generate more than 50% of turnover from trading activity. Detailed eligibility criteria should be consulted here and an eligibility checklist can be consulted here CBILS covers a range of finance products including term facilities, overdrafts, invoice finance facilities and asset finance facilities. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Business must be based in the UK in its business activity. Business must have a turnover of no more than £45 million per annum. Business must operate within an eligible industrial sector. Business must have a borrowing proposal, which would be considered viable by the lender were it not for the COVID-19 pandemic. Business must self-certify that it has been adversely impacted by COVID-19. Business must not have been classed as an 'undertaking in difficulty', if applying to borrow £30,000 or more. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Businesses should look to apply via a lender's website in the first instance. A full list of participating lenders can be found here. The British Business Bank is accepting applications for new lenders to undergo accreditation. Not all accredited lenders can provide every type of finance available under the scheme. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> This scheme has now launched. An in-depth FAQ page can be accessed here. CBILS has been extended for new applications to 31 January 2021.

Extended Coronavirus Job Retention Scheme	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Businesses that cannot maintain their workforce due to COVID-19 can continue to furlough their employees and apply for a grant covering 80% of their usual monthly wage costs (but this is subject to the cap referred to below). For claim periods running to January 2021, the government will pay 80% of wages up to a cap of £2,500 for hours not worked by employees and employers must pay Employer National Insurance contributions and pensions contributions. The £2,500 cap is reduced proportionately to the number of unworked hours. The existing CJRS calculation of 80% of usual wages and of usual hours will apply to all employees who were eligible under CJRS even if a claim was not made in respect of that employee under CJRS to 31 October 2020. Where an employee was not previously eligible for CJRS, the calculation will take account of updated reference periods. Full details of the calculation are in the guidance. The government will review the policy in January to decide whether economic circumstances are improving enough to ask employers to contribute more. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> All businesses whose operations have been severely affected by COVID-19. Businesses will be able to use the extended scheme even if they did not use the CJRS previously and whether their businesses remain open or are required to close under local or national restrictions. Any entity with a UK payroll including businesses, charities, recruitment agencies and public authorities. The government expects that publicly funded organisations will not use the scheme, but partially publicly funded organisations may be eligible. The grant is not limited to employees and can be claimed for office holders, salaried members of LLPs, agency workers and limb (b) workers paid via PAYE. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Employees must be on their employers' payroll by 30 October 2020. Neither the employer nor the employee needs to have previously used the CJRS. The employer must have made a PAYE Real Time Information submission to HMRC between 20 March and 30 October, notifying a payment of earnings for those employees. Businesses must have a UK bank account. Employees can be on any type of employment contract, including full-time, part-time, agency, flexible or zero-hour contracts. Employees who were on the payroll on 23 September 2020 but were made redundant or stopped working for their employer after that date can be re-employed and claimed for under the scheme. To be eligible for the grant, employers must have confirmed to their employee (or reached collective agreement with a trade union) in writing that they have been furloughed or flexibly furloughed. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Applications will once again be through an online gateway. Records of the amount claimed and the claim period for each employee must be kept for 6 years. Claims can be made from 11 November 2020: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> in respect of an employee for a minimum 7 day claim window; in advance; in arrears for the period from 1 November 2020 to 11 November 2020, from the week commencing 9 November 2020. Claims relating to November 2020 must be made by 14 December 2020. Claims relating to each subsequent month should be submitted by day 14 of the following month, to ensure prompt claims following the end of the month which is the subject of the claim. The closing date for claims up to and including 31 October remains 30 November 2020. Full guidance for the CJRS extension published. The guidance for claim periods from February onwards will be published following the government's review. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> There will be no gap in eligibility of support between the previously announced end date of CJRS on 31 October 2020 and the extension starting 1 November 2020. Support under the extended scheme is available from 1 November and will run until 31 March 2021.

The extension will provide two grants and will last for six months, from November 2020 to April 2021. Grants will be paid in two lump sum instalments each covering a three-month period. The first grant will cover a three-month period from 1 November 2020 until 31 January 2021. The Government will provide a taxable grant covering 55% of average monthly trading profits, paid out in a single instalment covering 3 months' worth of profits, and capped at £5,160 in total. The first grant will be increased from the previously announced level of 40% of trading profits to 80% for November 2020. This therefore increases the total level of the grant from 40% to 55% of trading profits for 1 November 2020 to 31 January 2021. The second grant will cover a three-month period from 1 February 2021 until 30 April 2021. HMRC will review the level of the second grant and set this in due course. The Winter Economy Plan: Tax

As part of his Winter Economy Plan, the UK Chancellor announced three important extensions to existing tax measures intended to reduce the immediate pressure and cash flow crisis, including a new payment scheme for deferred VAT payments, an extension to the temporary VAT reduction for hospitality and tourism, and enhanced time to pay for self-assessment taxpayers. This note sets out an overview of the changes.

There were also extensions to some of the existing loan schemes (including the Bounce Back Loan Scheme (BBLS), Coronavirus Business Interruption Loan Scheme (CBILS), Coronavirus Large Business Interruption Loan Scheme (CLBILS) and the Future Fund). All of which are discussed in further detail in this guide.

As has been the case throughout the crisis, tax announcements were muted. Even so, the Chancellor did announce three important extensions to existing measures intended to reduce the immediate pressure and cashflow crisis.

1. A VAT deferral 'New Payment Scheme'

The scheme is available to all businesses which deferred VAT due in the period from 20 March to 30 June 2020. HM Treasury estimate over half a million businesses deferred VAT equal to approximately £30bn. It is not clear how much of that has since been paid.

The New Payment Scheme gives affected business the option for spreading the payment of the deferred VAT due (originally due and payable in full on or before 31 March 2021) over 11 equal instalments through the financial year 2021-2022. No interest or penalties will be levied on the 'late' payments.

Businesses wishing to take advantage of the scheme need to opt in; it is not automatic. The process for opting in will be unveiled by HMRC early in 2021. Businesses considering spreading the repayment of deferred VAT should check (again) their payment arrangements (e.g. direct debits) are appropriate.

2. Extension of the temporary VAT reduced rate for hospitality and tourism

Available to all VAT registered business in the hospitality, leisure and accommodation sectors. HM Treasury estimate the measure supports more than 150,000 UK businesses.

Since 15 July 2020, eligible businesses have been able to apply a temporary reduced rate (5%) of VAT on their supplies of food, non-alcoholic drinks, hotel and holiday accommodation or admission to certain attractions. The standard rate (20%) of VAT was due to be reinstated on 12 January 2021 but the Chancellor has extended the period during which the reduced rate applies to 31 March 2021.

The scope of the measure is unaffected. As before, any businesses that also utilise the Flat Rate Scheme, the Tour Operators Margin Scheme (TOMS) or any other applicable special retail scheme should consider the impact of the reduced rate (and delayed subsequent reversal) on their VAT calculations and accounting.

3. 'Enhanced Time to Pay' for Self-Assessment taxpayers

Enhanced Time to Pay is available for self-employed taxpayers (with up to £30,000 of Self-Assessment liabilities due) who deferred their second payment on account for the 2019-20 tax year, originally due by 31 July 2020. Any deferred amount was due to be paid on or before 31 January 2021.

Under Enhanced Time to Pay, self-employed taxpayers who exercised the option to defer their second payment on account will, subject to agreeing a payment schedule with HMRC's self-service Time to Pay facility, be allowed to pay the tax due over an additional 12 month period with deferred amounts not due to be paid in full until the end of January 2021.

Although it is not clear whether the 'Enhanced Time to Pay' will also be available for any balancing payment that would otherwise have been due for payment for 2019-20 on 31 January 2021, the Winter Economy Plan report suggests that it applies only to the deferred July 2020 amount. It is almost certain the first payment on account due for the 2020-21 tax year, also due on 31 January 2021, will be due as normal.

Self-employed taxpayers wishing to take advantage of the extended repayment period should consider clarifying the position to ensure they are fully aware of the full extent of their self-assessment tax due on 31 January 2021. Any self-assessment taxpayer that is not able to pay their tax bill on time, including those who cannot use the online service, are advised to continue to use HMRC's normal 'Time to Pay' helpline to agree a payment plan.
