About Aarica

Aarica Roberson is an associate in the Litigation Practice Group who focuses her practice on commercial disputes related to automotive product warranty, products liability and fraud claims.

Aarica is an experienced litigator who routinely handles cases from inception through trial. Prior to joining the firm, Aarica successfully represented one of the largest federal agencies in the US in hundreds of litigation proceedings. In addition to her litigation experience, Aarica regularly advises clients regarding litigation strategies, settlement negotiations, compliance with state and federal laws, and compliance with corporate policies.

Aarica attended Loyola Law School, Los Angeles, where she served as the president of the Black Law Student's Association and acted as a mentor to inner-city high school students with the award-winning Judge Stephen O'Neil Trial Advocacy Mentoring Program ("Young Lawyers"). She also gained invaluable experience while serving as a judicial extern for the Honorable John A. Krondstat of the US District Court for the Central District of California.
