About Alexandra

Alexandra Heggie has more than 10 years of experience advising both individual and corporate trustees, as well as sponsoring employers on a wide range of issues facing occupational pension plans, covering both defined benefit and defined contribution arrangements.

Her experience includes advising on pension scheme documentation and governance; pension scheme transfers, mergers and other restructurings; pension scheme risk transfers; data protection; investments and dealing with member queries and complaints.

Experience

- Advising on pension scheme mergers and demergers, including a £1.2 billion pension plan demerger project involving the establishment of a common investment fund; more complex mergers involving more than two merging pension schemes; and advising on pension scheme sectionalisation/desectionalisation.
- Advising on pension scheme buy-ins and buy-outs, involving pension schemes with assets ranging from under £10 million to over £1 billion.
- Advising trustees and sponsoring employers on the process of moving to a commercial master trust provider to manage their past and future pension liabilities, involving both defined benefit and money purchase benefits.
- Advising trustee clients on detailed reviews of their plan's benefit specification and recommending proportionate steps to take where historical benefits paid in practice do not match the plan's governing rules.
- Advising trustee clients on day-to-day legal compliance and governance issues, including member queries and complaints; drafting and interpretation of pension plan documentation; and queries on data protection and other compliance areas.
