About André

André Vermeulen leads the Tax Strategy & Benefits Practice at the firm's Dublin office.

He advises multinational corporations and large domestic businesses on a broad spectrum of Irish corporate tax matters, with a particular emphasis on mergers and acquisitions, corporate restructurings, inbound investment and private equity transactions.

André has extensive experience in transaction structuring, due diligence (both buy-side and vendor-side), multijurisdictional engagements, and advising on tax aspects of share purchase agreements and tax deeds. His practice also covers tax dispute resolution, Irish stamp duty, and VAT on transactions. His pragmatic and commercially attuned advice makes him a valued strategic partner in complex transactions.

Experience

- Acted as adviser to a major American multinational technology company in establishing a €12 billion joint venture in Ireland.
- Advised on the acquisition of the Institute of Education by a UK-based client.
- Advised on the formation and structuring of multiple investment fund vehicles.
- Provided Irish tax advice in relation to the assignment of multiple commercial leases by a technology company headquartered in Dublin.
- Advised private equity clients on the acquisition of multiple Irish asset portfolios.
