About Emil

Emil R. Infante is a partner in the Financial Services Practice at our firm, based in Miami, Florida. He advises financial institutions, multinational corporations, private equity firms and sponsors, high-net-worth family office groups, sovereign entities and emerging growth companies on complex domestic, as well as cross-border transactional, regulatory and strategic matters.

Emil's practice focuses on financial services regulation, banking, securities, private equity, mergers and acquisitions, fund formation and structuring, as well as international business transactions. He is recognized for his work involving digital assets, cryptocurrency, blockchain technology, stablecoins, sanctions compliance, anticorruption matters under the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) and Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) regulations.

With substantial experience handling sophisticated matters spanning the US, Latin America, Europe and other international markets, Emil counsels clients navigating highly regulated and rapidly evolving industries at the intersection of finance, technology and global commerce. His practice frequently involves advising on complex regulatory frameworks, cross-border risk management, strategic investments, wealth preservation structures and high-stakes commercial disputes.

Clients value Emil for his commercial judgment, global perspective and practical, solutions-oriented approach to legal counsel. He is known for providing clear, business-focused advice that helps clients efficiently navigate complex legal and regulatory issues without unnecessary complication. Emil combines technical sophistication with pragmatic problem-solving tailored to the objectives of institutional clients, private investors, private equity sponsors and internationally active family office groups operating in dynamic global markets.
