About Galileo

Galileo Pozzoli is a member of the firm's global management board and the office managing partner of the Milan Office.

Galileo focuses on international arbitration and energy law in the oil and gas sector. He represents national oil companies, governments and state entities in all aspects of upstream oil and gas development and in investment treaty arbitrations.

Drawing on his energy expertise, Galileo has represented states and state-owned entities in arbitrations under International Chamber of Commerce (ICC), United Nations Commission on International Trade Law (UNCITRAL), International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes (ICSID) and London Court of International Arbitration (LCIA) arbitration rules arising out of, inter alia, production sharing, joint operating agreements, concession agreements, licenses and joint ventures.

Galileo's breadth of energy experience encompasses the structuring and negotiation of cross-border energy transactions, including negotiating and drafting production sharing agreements, joint operating agreements, service contracts and contracts for the transportation and distribution of natural gas and oil.

Galileo has significant experience in the real estate sector, advising on a wide range of real estate matters.
