About George

George von Mehren is global co-chair of our International Dispute Resolution Practice – ranked in the Top 10 by the Global Arbitration Review.

With more than 40 years of experience in complex adversarial proceedings, George spends 100% of his time representing clients in international arbitrations and providing strategic advice for litigation in courts outside the US. He has an established record of working effectively with counsel worldwide to achieve strong results for clients.

George has been lead counsel in more than 200 high-value international arbitrations, many resulting in multimillion-dollar to multibillion-dollar victories for his clients.

George is a recognized expert in energy industry disputes.

George's legal training at Cambridge University (Trinity College) and Harvard Law School provides him with the background necessary to deal with cases governed by both common and civil law. Qualified to practice in several US courts, George is also a Registered Foreign Lawyer with the Solicitors Regulatory Authority (England and Wales). Whether a contract, licensing or joint venture dispute, construction, product liability, securities, insurance or regulatory matter, George is skilled in developing sophisticated strategies designed to win his client's case either at hearing or in settlement negotiations.

Experience

- Lead counsel for claimant in what is acknowledged to be the largest arbitration in the world – a US$100 billion plus UNCITRAL arbitration arising out of the development of an oil field in Asia.
- Advising the government of Ecuador in connection with the Bilateral Investment Treaty (BIT) dispute between the US and Ecuador related to an alleged expropriation and unfair treatment of the claimants' investment in an oil concession (International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes (ICSID)). We successfully appealed the amount of the award and achieved the largest amount ever annulled up until that time in ICSID history of approximately US$800 million.
