About John

John Criscuolo is a trusted member of the team that supports former US Speaker John Boehner (R-OH). He first joined the then House Minority Leader John Boehner's team in November 2007 as a political aide and spent nearly 10 years working with Speaker Boehner on Capitol Hill, and most recently as director of the Speaker's political action committee, the Freedom Project.

At Squire Patton Boggs, John continues to work by Speaker Boehner's side on global business development initiatives and strategic consulting matters for clients, while also collaborating with other members of the firm's global public policy operation.

From January 2011 to October 2015, John served as Deputy Advance Director for Speaker Boehner's highly effective campaign and fundraising operation. He worked closely with members of Congress and their staff on all aspects of the Speaker's activities in support of a Republican majority in the US House.
