About Louise

Louise Ng has built a robust legal practice focusing on several key sectors and areas of law: venture capital and startups, TMT, corporate mergers and acquisitions, securities law and banking transactions involving taking security in Hong Kong.

Louise's extensive and broad legal experience allows her to navigate complex legal issues with stature, providing clients with tailored and succinct legal advice and solutions.

Louise was previously seconded to a global investment bank providing corporate and contract law advice to internal stakeholders.

Venture Capital and Startups

Louise advises startups and founders, enabling them to secure funding in series of funding rounds and navigate regulatory requirements. Louise is also a trusted adviser to a number of venture capital firms and high net worth clients in their minority investments in portfolio companies in the technology, AI and healthcare sectors. Louise's hands-on approach ensures clients receive timely, practical and actionable advice in time-sensitive transactions.

Corporate M&A

Louise has extensive experience in cross-border and private M&A transactions, advising clients in every stage of the transaction process, including term sheet negotiation, conducting legal due diligence, drafting definitive transaction agreements and ancillary documents and attending to closing.

TMT

Previously part of our Communications Practice Group, Louise has extensive knowledge in the telecommunications sector in Hong Kong and regionally, advising international telcos and businesses on their day-to-day business and ensuring compliance with regulatory requirements.

Financing

Louise provides Hong Kong law advice and support to the firm's banking and financial institutions clients in their banking and financing transactions (including asset-based lending, revolving credit facility and accounts receivables purchase facility), and taking security in Hong Kong.
